2023 Conference Theme: Building(s) for an Equitable Energy Future

From housing crises to extreme weather, our buildings are our first line of defense. Our built environment impacts how we live, our comfort and safety -- and our energy systems. As we heat, cool, and cook, our homes and work-places have a huge impact on our energy bills and emissions. How can our buildings create safer communities and tackle climate change?

Building(s) for an Equitable Energy Future will explore how construction, energy systems, and local climate policies overlap. We will be diving into who is informing clean energy policies and the community impacts of these decisions. We will make connections between community advocates, the energy industry, the buildings industry, and policymakers. And we will bring in vital perspectives from communities on the front lines of climate change in the Pacific Northwest. Together, we can build an energy transition that works for all of us.

About the CUB Policy Conference

The CUB Policy Conference is designed as a day of discussion, networking, and sharing diverse perspectives. Each year, we see 250+ attendees from across the Pacific Northwest energy and policy industry. Attendees include:

- Community Advocates
- Regulators and Legislators
- Utility Representatives
- Attorneys

Becoming a Sponsor

We could not present the CUB Policy Conference without the generous support of our sponsors. For information about sponsorship, contact Cassie Allen at cassie@oregoncub.org or 503-486-8018.
